Bringing the community together for health and wellness
Community Wellness Day is an excellent example of community education partnerships in action!

Sponsors and community education staff work to bring community resources together, by offering educational activities, demonstrations, health screenings and community resources.

Workshops focus on healthy cooking, exercise, nutrition, fitness, stress management, and family health activities and life styles - to name a few.

With the belief that wellness is more than the absence of illness, Community Wellness Day strives to provide an environment that supports the nutritional and physical well-being of those who live, work, and play in the community.

Residents and families are invited to attend Community Wellness Day, a free, educational opportunity to learn and practice healthy lifestyle habits. Attendees may benefit from free workshops, demonstrations, health screenings and more!
